YouTube Star Peter Hollens Debuts “Quarantine Song” to Drive Donations to Combat COVID-19

#1 Billboard Charting Recording Artist and YouTube Sensation Creates New Musical Parody Using Hit Pop Tunes to Encourage Social Distancing; 100% of Proceeds Raised Will be Donated to No Kid Hungry’s Coronavirus Relief Fund

(Los Angeles, CA—April 20, 2020) Peter Hollens, recording artist, American entrepreneur, educator, and classically-trained vocal artist most commonly known for his a cappella music videos on Youtube and Facebook, has debuted the QUARANTINE SONG today to encourage people to stay home to flatten the curve and beat COVID-19. The new song is a 100% charity-driven effort, with proceeds going to support millions of children who have lost healthy meals due to school closures nationwide.

“We created this to bring levity and fun to a serious subject, but to also remind people that now is the time to think of others before ourselves. Staying home protects ourselves and our family but also our neighbors, friends and our global community,” said Hollens, who’s popular YouTube channel reaches nearly 3 million subscribers. “Thanks to all of my fellow influencers who are joining me in getting this video out into the world. We’re asking everyone to share this video to spread the word and hopefully slow down the spread of coronavirus.”

The QUARANTINE SONG was kickstarted by the launch of Hollens’ latest video, which parodies global superstars, including Lady Gaga, Adele, Ed Sheeran, Justin Bieber, Dua Lipa and more with a special guest appearance by Tay Zonday parodying his song “Chocolate Rain” and Ewynne Hollens in a singalong encouraging viewers to stay home and practice social distancing when going out.

QUICK PITCH:

Tired of stressful news, do you need a laugh to remind us why we're all staying home? YouTube star and top Billboard recording artist Peter Hollens puts his own spin on top pop songs, resulting in the "Quarantine Song". The mash-up of parodies of top hits from Adele, Lady Gaga, Ed Sheeran and more will make you smile and dance, all while reminding you of the importance of social distancing.

The idea for the song came about as a follow up to the super popular "Epic Hand Washing Song" he wanted to bring a lighthearted reminder to everyone to stay home, practice social distancing and keep everyone safe during the COVID-19 pandemic. 100% of Proceeds raised from the streams of the song will be donated to No Kid Hungry's Relief Fund.
